

Types of projects NOT funded by ANZ Trustees Grant Programs

Philanthropic funding is distinct from government or corporate funding. Philanthropic funds are a 'gift' from a benefactor who wishes to give towards specific areas for public good. Funding from ANZ Trustees Programs, is distinct because it offers encouragement for development projects or new ideas while also supporting excellence, often prior to government or corporate funding.

ANZ Trustees Grant Programs do not fund:

- Projects that do not fit the aims of the specific Program;
- Projects that may be more suited to corporate sponsorship or investment;
- Projects that may be more suited to government funding;
- Budget deficits;
- Projects seeking support after the loss of government funding;
- General operating and administrative expenses;
- General fund raising campaigns, e.g. annual appeals;
- Bequest programs, or contribution to the corpus of another trust;
- Core programs funded from other sources;
- Bodies which are themselves grant-making agencies;
- Projects which are auspiced by an organisation not directly involved in delivering the project;
- Requests for contributions for the continuation of larger scale medical research projects;
- Projects requiring retrospective funding;
- Sectarian or religious bodies where services are limited to their own members;
- Individuals;
- Contributions to large building programs are not supported unless stated under a specific program.
