

Types of projects funded by ANZ Trustees Grant Programs

The overall aim of ANZ Trustees Grant Programs is: “To achieve a sustained positive impact on community outcomes, by supporting projects and initiatives that make a difference and leave the funded organisations and communities stronger.”

To achieve this aim, ANZ Trustees will consider applications relating to projects that show some or all of these characteristics:

- Aim to bring about change, particularly beyond the immediate project target group and/or organisation;
- Focus on prevention;
- Address identified needs;
- Fit within the organisation’s strategic plan;
- Seek to produce tangible outcomes that benefit individuals or the community;
- Show how the project and/or its impacts will be sustained when philanthropic funding finishes;
- Have the potential to leverage additional funding;
- Show how results may be disseminated publicly and/or how projects or programs could be replicated elsewhere;
- Demonstrate collaboration internally and externally;
- Show capacity to evaluate the project and to learn from the findings;
- Build the capacity of the organisation;
- Have carefully prepared and realistic budgets.

To achieve this aim, the Trustees will generally favourably consider applications from organisations that:

- Focus on their clients and the benefits they can achieve for them;
- Demonstrate best practice and leadership in their field;
- Have a commitment to share knowledge gained with other organisations;
- Have appropriate management, governance and structures;
- Operate efficiently and effectively with the majority of funding allocated to services and knowledge generation.

In addition to a specific Program’s guidelines, consider the information above when making an application to an ANZ Trustees Grant Program.
