

Buy/Sell spread for the ANZ Enhanced Yield Fund

PDS UPDATE AND CONTINUOUS DISCLOSURE NOTICE | 18 MARCH 2020

This PDS Update and Continuous Disclosure Notice provides important information for current investors in the ANZ Enhanced Yield Fund (the Fund) and amends the following documents:

- ANZ Enhanced Yield Fund Product Disclosure Statement (PDS) dated 1 February 2020
- ANZ Wholesale Funds Additional Information Guide (AIG) dated 1 February 2020

What is changing?

Effective immediately, the Sell spread applicable to the Fund will be increased to 1.50%.

Updated information

1. On page 6 of the PDS, in the section titled 'Transaction costs', the following sentence is added:
"The current Sell spread is 1.50% and is subject to change".
2. The row in the 'Buy-Sell Spreads' table relating to the ANZ Enhanced Yield Fund disclosed on page 4 of the AIG is updated as follows:

Previous Buy-Sell Spread

Fund	Buy spread %	Sell spread %
ANZ Enhanced Yield Fund	0.00%	0.00%

New Buy-Sell Spread

Fund	Buy spread %	Sell spread %
ANZ Enhanced Yield Fund	0.00%	1.50%

Please note: Current market conditions are being monitored and we may need to further adjust the spreads to take into account the costs of buying and selling assets at this uncertain time. If the spreads are adjusted again, we will issue a further update.

Why are we making these changes?

Recent market fears over COVID-19 have caused market liquidity to deteriorate remarkably over the past few days, impacting all segments of the Australian fixed-income market.

Given the current market trading conditions for credit based products, a 0% buy and sell spread is no longer reflective of the current cost of trading in the market place.

We have a responsibility to act in the best interests of investors. An increased sell spread is required to cover increased transaction costs in the markets for the assets held by the Fund.

What does this change mean for investors?

Effective immediately, these new spreads will be applied to the Fund and reflected in its unit prices.

Please note, that the buy/sell spread protects non-transacting investors from the costs incurred when other investors buy or sell units, which triggers trading of underlying assets.

These steps are not taken lightly but are necessary precautions to temporarily protect investors whilst this period of uncertainty continues. Market conditions are being monitored closely and the buy/sell spread of the Fund will be re-adjusted when appropriate.
