How much credit am I eligible for?

The amount of credit (your credit limit) you are eligible for is calculated based on your financial and personal details provided at application for your credit card. ANZ reviews information including: your employment history, your financials, your banking history, repayment history and length of employment contract, to determine your credit limit. If the credit limit is higher than you need, you can ask for it to be reduced.

What if I spend over the credit limit?

If a transaction takes you over your credit limit, you must repay the excess amount immediately. You may be charged an over limit fee or have your ANZ Credit Card account suspended.

Using my ANZ Credit Card

When you use your ANZ Credit Card, your transaction details are sent from the retailer or service provider to ANZ. Your available credit limit is then reduced by the amount of the transaction and the details are recorded on your ANZ Credit Card statement.

It is important to carefully check the transaction amount and other details before you authorise the transaction, and again when you receive your ANZ Credit Card statement, to ensure your purchases.

In addition to using your ANZ Credit Card for purchasing from retailers and service providers, you can also use your ANZ Credit Card for cash advances.

A cash advance occurs when you use your ANZ Credit Card to withdraw cash from a branch or ATM or a cash equivalent transaction (for example when you purchase travellers cheques).

Fees and Charges

The fees and charges on your ANZ Credit Card account are detailed in the ANZ Credit Card Fee Schedule. If there is any change to these fees and charges, you will be notified.

The latest fee schedule can be accessed at anz.com/vietnam or at any ANZ branch or by calling ANZ Contact Centre at 1800 5999 26

Fees and charges may vary between ANZ Credit Cards and are charged for:

- Account maintenance (for example, annual credit card fees)
- Service fees (for example, late payment or over the limit fees)
- Transactions (for example, if you withdraw cash using your credit card)

Your ANZ Credit Card statement

You will be issued with a monthly ANZ Credit Card statement. This statement will include:

- details of transactions made for the statement period
- details of instalment plans (if any)
- interest and other charges
- reward cashback (reward credited from last month, reward earned this month, reward earned year-to-date)
- a running balance
- payments made and payments due

Always read your statement carefully and make sure you understand your obligations as a credit cardholder. Statement information may vary for each type of product. However, you should always check the amount you owe (your closing balance) and when the minimum monthly payment has to be paid, the amount of credit you have used, the amount of credit that is available to you.

If you do not receive your statement, call ANZ Contact Centre at 1800 5999 26 for a copy.

How much do I have to pay?

You can choose to pay the full statement closing balance or part of it, but at least the monthly minimum amount. If you do not pay the monthly minimum amount by the due date, you may be charged a late payment fee and your ANZ Credit Card account may be suspended or closed.

Interest will be applied when your payment is less than statement closing balance

Checking statement charges

If you find a charge on your statement that you do not recognise, please check your receipts. You may have forgotten about a transaction made earlier that month. Some merchants also have trading names different from the name that appears on the statement, a transaction may have been made by an additional cardholder.

If you still believe you have been incorrectly charged, the first step is to contact the merchant. If you are unhappy with the result, contact ANZ Contact Centre at 1800 5999 26 and ask for assistance with a disputed transaction. If ANZ agrees that you have been incorrectly charged, and you have notified ANZ within a reasonable time, the transaction will be reversed and a refund processed to your account.

EMV CHIP CREDIT CARD

What is EMV chip card?

The EMV Chip credit card is the card newly equipped with global standard Europay Mastercard Visa (EMV) chip technology that will help to improve the payment security for your credit card and protect cardholders against counterfeit fraud.

What are the benefits of holding an ANZ EMV chip credit card?

A microchip embedded in the ANZ credit card adds a new layer of protection against fraud for purchases made at the point of sale. Information programmed into the chip is personalized for your account and each transaction generates a unique code, adding an extra safeguard against unauthorized use and counterfeiting.

Do I need to sign the back of the card?

Yes. You still need to sign the back of your ANZ EMV chip card, same as magnetic stripe card.

How to use my ANZ EMV chip credit card at POS/merchants?

For EMV chip card usage at POS/merchants, your ANZ Credit Card is to be inserted (rather than swipe) into available terminal slot and waiting for it to process. Be sure to remove your chip card and sign on the printed receipt when the transaction is completed.

What should I do if a merchant is not using a chip-enabled terminal?

You will 'swipe' your ANZ EMV chip credit card to make your purchase, just as you do with your magnetic stripe card. ANZ EMV chip cards still have the magnetic stripe on the back.

How to use my ANZ EMV chip card for Online purchasing?

You can use your chip card to make purchases online same as you do with your ANZ magnetic stripe card.

If I want to use ANZ EMV chip credit card for cash withdrawing at ATM, what should I do?

You can use your ANZ chip card to withdraw cash at ATM same as you do with your ANZ magnetic stripe card.

If I currently have 2 ANZ credit cards, one of which is auto renewed/or reissued/or upgraded/or downgraded, will it be EMV chip card? Is there any problem if I own and use 2 different card types (magnetic stripe and EMV chip) at the same time?

Yes your new card (from renewing/ reissuing/ upgrading/ downgrading) will be EMV chip card. Your new EMV card and current magnetic stripe card can be used normally at the same time without any issue.

If I get new ANZ chip card due to renewal (expired after 3 years), I don't get new PIN issuance. Can I keep using the current PIN, which was used for my magnetic stripe card, on new EMV chip card?

You can use your renewed EMV chip card with current PIN (of magnetic stripe card) for ATM transactions as usual.

I have an ANZ magnetic stripe card, should I request ANZ to issue a new EMV chip card to replace for my current one? How if I keep using my magnetic stripe card?

If your existing ANZ credit card is lost/stolen/fraud or suspicious, ANZ will block your existing card and issue a new EMV chip credit card for you. Otherwise, you can keep using your magnetic stripe card as normal. Once your magnetic stripe card is expired (after 3 years), ANZ will renew it with an EMV chip card (free of charge).

In case you insist to replace your magnetic stripe card card (which has not been expired) with a new EMV chip card, please call our Contact Center via 19001276. Your request is subject to a fee of VND100,000 per chip card replacement. Noted that the re-issued EMV Chip card will have new card number, new PIN number, and new CVV2 number (3 digits on the back of your card).

UNDERSTANDING INTEREST

What is interest?

Interest is a charge for providing credit. Interest is applied to purchases, cash transactions, instalment plans and interest from previous months and fee charges.

How is interest calculated?

Interest is calculated on the daily closing account balance and is applied at the end of the statement period. The corresponding daily interest rate is used for this calculation.

Where special rate applies, for example, in case an instalment plan offer is accepted, the rate that applies to the offer will be used to calculate on that part of the balance.

When is interest charged?

Interest is charged if the statement closing balance is not paid off in full by the statement due date each month and accrued from the day of each transaction in that statement.

Interest is charged on cash transactions from the date they are made until the full amount of the transaction is paid off in full. There is no interest free period for cash transactions.

For instalment plan(s), its interest (if any) will be applied in accordance with the agreed tenor of the plan.

What is an interest free period?

The maximum interest free period for purchases is the number of days from the transaction date to the payment due date.

Cash advances on your ANZ Credit Card accrue interest from the day of the transaction, and so are not included as part of your interest free period. Refer to your ANZ Credit Card Terms and Conditions for more information.

The interest free period is not applicable to instalment plan(s).

When will you stop seeing interest billed to your statement?

Once you make your next full payment by the due date, your interest free benefits for purchases will automatically reinstate. However, interest is charged to your ANZ Credit Card account up until the full payment is received. A final interest charge will appear on your next statement. For instalment plan(s), as interest is computed daily, you may see the last remaining interest due from your instalment transaction posted after the full instalment amount is paid.
